HOUSE PASSES GARNER RELIEF PLAN

SMITH ALLIES PLAN TO FIGHT TO LAST DITCH

CHAIRMANSHIP BATTLE WILL OFFER REAL TEST

BY ROBERT ST. JOHN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

New York, June 7 (AP)—Alfred E. Smith's political allies decided today to hinge their hopes of nominating the "happy warrior" on a furious fight over the selection of a permanent chairman of the Democratic national committee.

This was learned at the conclusion of a four-hour strategy meeting of Smith's "war board."

"It will be a fight to the last ditch," said the spokesman of the group, Thomas F. Spellacy, Smith leader in Connecticut, as he outlined plans for a united battle to elect Jouett Shouse, executive chairman of the Democratic national committee, as presiding officer of the convention.

Test of Strength

He inferred the meeting had dealt with little else, except a decision that Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts would nominate Smith, and that Representative Mary E. Norton of New Jersey would be among the seconders.

It thus appeared that the first test of strength between the Roosevelt and "stop-Roosevelt" groups would come on this question.

The Smith forces were represented as feeling that this issue would give them an ideal ground on which to co-ordinate and solidify the opposition to the New York governor and prevent him from dominating the convention.

Shouse already has questioned Roosevelt's "good faaith" in the decision of the New Yorker's forces to fight for the election of Senator Walsh of Montana as permanent chairman.

Senator Wheeler of Montana today countered by accusing Shouse of using his national committee position to aid in the "stop-Roosevelt" movement.

"Our purpose is to nominate Alfred E. Smith for president," Spellacy said, "and we will not stop until that goal has been reached."

"We believe Smith will be nominated because he is the one man in the country who stands with a program that has been approved by the Democrats of the nation. . . .

"It will be the desire of the convention to nominate a winner and what we need in the White House is a fighter. That man is Smith."

While the Smith meeting was on, Roosevelt's campaign managers were likewise concentrating on plans for the chairmanship battle.

A two-thirds vote is necessary to nominate a presidential candidate, but only a bare majority is needed to elect a chairman.

The Roosevelt leaders, claiming that they will have 691 of the 1,154 delegates with them at the opening of the convention, expressed a firm belief in their ability to elect Walsh.

Packing Head Left $5,000,000 Estate

Chicago, June 7 (AP)—Edward F. Swift, member of the meat packing family who plunged to his death ten days ago from his Gold Coast apartment, left an estate valued at $5,000,000.

The will, filed for probate today, left one-third of the estate to the widow, Mrs. Hortense Swift; one-third in trust for the three children, Anna May Swift, Henry T. Philip and Edward F., Jr., and a third to charity and minor legatees.

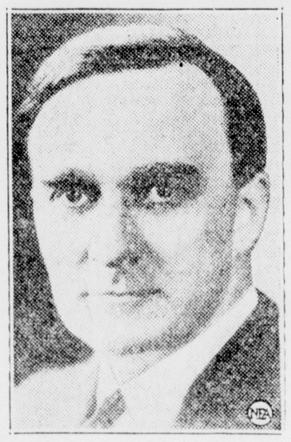
Quits Dry Post; Asks Vote Test



Splitting with dry organizations opposed to resubmission of the liquor question, Dr. Daniel A. Poling (above), resigned as chairman of the allied forces for prohibition and announced he would favor a national referendum on prohibition. If the wets have the votes to bring about a change in the eighteenth amendment, let they produce them, was the challenge of Dr. Poling, who emphasized he would be against any revision.

DRY SENATORS HOLD MEETING

G. O. P. Group Headed By Borah to Attack Resubmission

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, June 7 (AP)—A concerted attack upon the prohibition resubmission plank tentatively agreed upon by Republican leaders was considered today by a group of senate Republican prohibitionists but no conclusions were reached.

The band of prohibitionists held their unannounced conference in the office of Senator Borah of Idaho, who already has opened fire on the resubmission proposal for its omission of a specific substitute for the eighteenth amendment.

Borah presided over the gathering which assembled so mysteriously that no one knew at first who called it. Borah did.

"We talked over the prohibition situation with respect to the national convention," the Idahoan said. "No conclusions were reached. It was simply an exchange of views on what the party should do. No effort to reach an agreement or conclusion was made."

Eight friends of prohibition attended the meeting. It was said no further conferences were planned. Some of those present indicated there was no prospect of unified action by the group at Chicago.

Borah reiterated tonight that he had no intention of going to the Chicago convention.

Vandenberg Attends

Meanwhile, James R. Garfield, chairman of the resolutions committee, prepared to leave Washington tonight for Chicago with the tentative resubmission plank already given approval in princi-

Jury Probe Of Gun Smuggling Near End

Marquette, Mich., June 7 (AP)—The one-man grand jury investigation into the smuggling of guns into the Marquette branch prison last summer probably will be concluded about noon tomorrow, it was indicated tonight. If any indictments are returned it is expected the defendants will be arraigned immediately and a date for trial set.

Judge Victor E. Sprague, of Cheboygan, is presiding.

REDUCTION IN EXPENSES FOR VETS REFUSED

SOLONS REJECT ALL PLANS TO SLASH DEP'T COSTS

Washington, June 7 (AP)—By an overwhelming vote the senate late today tossed out of the national economy bill all provisions for curtailing expenditures for war veterans.

The action shot a $48,000,000 hole in the measure and cut its total estimated savings to $186,000,000. The exemption of salaries below $1,000 from pay cuts had reduced the saving $4,000,000.

As reported to the senate by its bi-partisan economy committee, the bill carried a saving of $238,000,000 and was described as necessary to help the new tax balance the budget.

The veterans sections calling for a saving of $48,714,000 were thrown out bodily by a 63 to 14 vote after members of the committee who had advocated them told the senate they believed it would not be practicable to put them through at this time. The decision duplicated the action of the house.

Near Final Vote

In place of the seven sections tightening the requirements for cash allowances and institutional care, the senate like the house, retained only a paragraph providing for a joint congressional committee to consider veterans' legislation and report January 1 as to possible changes.

With the controversial veterans' question out of the way, the senate approached a final vote on the measure which ranks second only to the tax bill in fiscal importance.

The bulk of the savings which it carried were bound up in a flat 10 per cent cut in pay of all civilian federal employes receiving more than $1,000 a year, but an effort was under way to substitute for this the Hoover furlough plan rejected earlier in the day.

The administration proposal for furloughing employes for a month without pay or placing them on a five day week is estimated to save $90,000,000 compared to $117,000,000 estimated for the 10 per cent slash.

Only this question and one or two motions for reconsideration of minor items stood between the measure and passage.

Senate leaders had intended to stay in session this evening in the hope of finishing the measure

Penny A Portion Meals in Detroit Get Big Response

Detroit, June 7 (AP)—A plan of anonymous philanthropists to serve complete meals for a cent a portion, in order to provide a place where persons of limited means can obtain good food in comfortable surroundings cheaply enough to remain independent of charity, met with an overwhelming response today.

Fifteen minutes after the large cafeteria had been opened, the influx of customers taxed it to capacity, and the doors were closed until those already inside could be served. There was a long line of patrons until well along in the afternoon.

Big Meal for 13 Cents

Customers ranged from a heavy eater who paid 13 cents for two meats and two desserts in addition to soup, potatoes, Lima beans, bread, butter, coffee and cream, to tiny Harry Carter, who had two cents with him but spent only one, for a piece of cake.

There was the elderly, well-dressed man who broke a five-dollar bill to pay for a 10 cent tray of food, and little Dorothy Steele, who spent her entire six cents for a full meal.

White collar workers rubbed elbows with men in working clothes and at their sides were women stenos and typists, and mothers with children clinging to their hands.

The first day's menu included beef stew, Spanish rice, baked beans, corned beef hash, frankfurters, veal cutlet, sausage cake, Lima beans, pea soup, vegetable soup, potato salad, apple sauce, rice pudding, prunes, cookies, cake, coffee and bread, at one cent a portion.

Neil Van Poperin, manager, said the cafeteria was being operated on a non-profit basis and will be nearly self-supporting with food prices at their present low level. Additional cafeterias will be opened in other parts of the city if the first proves sufficiently successful.

War Veterans March In Capital to Stress Their Bonus Demands

BY C. P. WILLIAMSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, June 7 (AP)—An army of war veterans swung into martial step tonight and tramped up historic Pennsylvania avenue to give emphasis to their demand for full payment immediately of the bonus.

They were a bedraggled, forlorn lot. Their ragged, soiled shirts, worn shoes and baggy trousers contrasted sharply with the natty uniforms they wore in the days of the World war. A handful had dug out and pressed for the hundredth time the last uniform the army gave them.

All were orderly and the spring of military marching and columns left and right returned quickly as company and regimental commanders snapped orders.

100,000 Spectators

Police commanded by Brigadier General Pelham D. Glassford patrolled the lines, carefully watching as crowds along the streets applauded or commented from behind stretched metal lines as for a president's inauguration.

Glassford estimated that between 5,000 and 7,000 marched in the lines four abreast. They were followed by automobiles and trucks carrying those who were too ill, too disabled or too exhausted after arriving to join in the hour and a half march.

Twilight fell as marchers turned into the avenue. Those who gathered to watch them pass were estimated by Glassford to total 100,000. The applause of the spectators was sporadic, but it was sufficient to assure the veterans that Washington was giving them an unexpected welcome on their first public appearance in numbers.

They did not pass the White House and passed the capitol building only at a distance. The crowds of each was carefully patrolled, but for all the trouble the veterans caused they could have been left unguarded.

There were no demonstrations in the ranks, although an occasional group would break feebly into song or more lustily into a whistled chorus of doughboy songs. Time was kept by the local Legion post fife and drum corps and one from Baltimore.

Their American flags were grimy from the long trek some had made across the country, but the spectators saluted them as respectfully as the newest flag ever carried in a parade up the avenue.

Communists Arrested

Communists who could produce discharge certificates marched beside their more conservative comrades. A constant outlook for possible agitators along the sidelines was kept by police, plainclothesmen from the metropolitan police headquarters and undercover agents of the justice and labor departments.

The spirit of the Communists apparently had been dampened, however, by rough treatment at one of the encampments during the day when groups of veterans arrested agitators and took them to a nearby police station. After investigation and questioning by justice and labor officials all were released and warned to "stay out of the parade and get out of town." Most of them were said to have left.

The veterans dispersed in as military and orderly a manner as they assembled. Each group filed down the proper street under police escort to its respective encampment.

The only incident of the parade was an attempt by a group of negroes to break through the sidelines toward the marchers. They were driven back by motorcycle police and caused no further trouble. The object of their attempted sally was not known.

George Alman of Portland, Oregon, who was made commander-in-chief after the resignation of Walter M. Waters of Portland, originator of the "on to Washington movement," led the march. Waters walked beside him.

The prospect of foodless days after tomorrow did not appear to bother the veterans as they filed back to their encampments.

Police Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby denied he had warned Glassford that a continuance of his feeding of the veterans would lead to his dismissal by the White House.

Glassford has announced that tomorrow night he will turn over the commissary to the veterans after which they must shift for themselves without further police guidance or aid.

Life Termer Requests That He Be Hanged

Hartford, Conn., June 7 (AP)—Dr. Harold N. Guilfoyle, who is serving a life sentence for the slaying of Mrs. Clare Cavanaugh Gaudet in 1928, petitioned the superior court today to order him hanged.

The 47-year-old veterinarian, who previously had maintained that a mysterious man shot Mrs. Gaudet and wounded himself, asked that he be executed as a merciful act.

He based his plea to Judge P. B. O'Sullivan on what he considers a technical error by the three judges who convicted him of second degree murder. Their sentence, he contended read "as charged in said indictment," whereas the grand jury held him for murder in the first degree.

While some court officials were inclined to the belief that Dr. Guilfoyle, sent the petition only to focus attention on his case, Judge O'Sullivan ordered Public Defender Reinhart L. Gideon to study the unusual request.

Mrs. Gaudet and Dr. Guilfoyle were shot while leaving his apartment here with Mrs. Guilfoyle, Mr. and Mrs. Algernon Way and Mrs. Gaudet's five year old daughter. The veterinarian was arrested in a hospital while recovering from his wound.

The slaying was alleged to have been the culmination of a love affair between the woman and Dr. Guilfoyle.

Partially blind from his wound, Dr. Fuilfoyle has been able to work in the prison hospital. His wife, Mrs. Matila Guilfoyle, who lives near Philadelphia, visited him frequently.

Deputy Sheriff Is Killed In Kentucky

Hopkinsville, Ky., June 7 (AP)—Deputy Sheriff Wallace Myers was shot to death late today when coal miners for whom he was guarding were fired upon with machine guns and rifles from a wooded hill overlooking Empire mine No. 6, about fifteen miles from here. The barrage of bullets scattered the miners as they emerged from a pit.

A posse of officers and citizens was formed immediately at Mannington, a neighboring coal mining community, and, aided by bloodhounds, started in search of the assailants.

Former employes of the Empire mine No. 6 have been on a strike for some time. Twenty-four of them are under bond for grand jury action in connection with disorders.

Farmer Is Arrested For Cruelty To Son

Hart, Mich., June 7 (AP)—John Snook, Leavitt township farmer, was in jail tonight in default of $1,000 bond on a charge of torturing and unlawfully punishing his son Charles, 9. The boy displayed in court welts on his back, suffered, he said, when his father struck him with a club.

Snook was held to circuit court for trial after an examination before Justice Henry Mitchell. Officers said Snook admitted beating the boy, and that he also had lashed each of his five sons to a stake in the barn or suspended them with ropes on occasions and then had beaten them with harness tugs or sticks.

The punishment, Snook said, was necessary because of problems confronting him in the rearing of five sons and a daughter.

11 LOSE LIVES IN EXPLOSION AT CLEVELAND

MANY ARE INJURED BY BLAST, FIRE; 12 MISSING

Cleveland, June 7 (AP)—A dozen persons were missing tonight in the wake of a disastrous explosion and fire that early today destroyed the Ellington apartment hotel with an accompanying loss of eleven lives and injuries to two score.

As firemen dug into the great piles of blackened brick and masonry, they expressed the belief it would be several days before the death toll is definitely established.

The six-story frame-brick building, a landmark in downtown Cleveland at East Ninth and Superior since the nineties, was shattered by a mysterious explosion shortly after midnight and immediately enveloped in sheets of flame that trapped more than 150 residents in their rooms.

Only four bodies have been removed from the building, but firemen and police located seven others wedged in the debris. Tottering walls and the masses of ruins makes it problematical when they will be reached.

Grand Jury Investigation

Three separate investigations were under way into the origin of the blast, so terrific that it shook the entire business district and hurled streamers of flame nearly 100 feet above the top of the building. It was followed by other and smaller blasts.

One theory was that leaking gas was responsible. Police arson squads combing the ruins found several cans of alcohol in the basement and announced the discovery warranted a grand jury investigation into the fire.

Estimates of the loss, both of the apartment and to shops ranged from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

The explosion came with stunning suddenness and was a forerunner of a night of horror and confusion. Twenty-five fire companies raced to the scene barely ahead of thousands of spectators who poured from neighboring hotels and restaurants.

Police officers dashed into the blazing structure to awaken occupants. Dazed occupants ran into the street in night attire, many burned and injured.

The screams of trapped women, silhouetted in windows, filled the crowd with horror. Many jumped into life nets but others disappeared into the fire-filled interior, apparently panic-stricken.

Scores of heroic rescues were accomplished by passersby, nevertheless, and three firemen were injured in carrying out victims. Among the rescuers was Mickey Cochrane, catcher for the Philadelphia Athletics, who with Ivan Peterman, Philadelphia sports writer, went up a ladder to save three women.

Roosevelt Praises John Rockefeller

Albany, N. Y., June 7 (AP)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight praised John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for urging repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The governor, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the presidency, and a wet, said:

"I am very glad to read the statement by John D. Rockefeller, Jr. It will be of real help in getting action at the next session of congress so that in every state there can be a vote on the eighteenth amendment."

Jefferson Supreme as Party Boss; How Hamilton and Burr Fought for Power

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of six daily stories on the important part political bosses have played in the choice of the nation's presidents from the early days of the republic down to the present.)

Washington, June 7.—The first important political bosses in this republic, who gave us a system that still endures in 1932, were Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton.

Mighty men they were and their names still echo through convention halls from the throats of modern party leaders who claim to be political descendants.

Intrigue and double-dealing marked American politics almost from the beginning. But the leaders who organized and guided parties and made presidents in the first three or four decades of presidential elections were either holding the highest federal offices or seeking them.

Politics began to develop as a profession when the people began to vote in large numbers. Then arose the system of nominating presidential candidates at national conventions which at once became characterized by manipulation at the expense of popular control. In almost no time convention delegates became accustomed to twiddling their thumbs while bosses sat in hotel rooms picking dark horses.

Aaron Burr—getting back to the initial period—was the first prominent political boss whose

Beats Brookhart In Primary Race

Here's a shirt-collar closeup of Henry "Himself" Field, Shenandoah, Ia., seedsman and general store proprietor, who defeated Senator Smith W. Brookhart for the Republican nomination for senator. Field, the father of 11 children, flayed Brookhart for nepotism on his radio station KFNF, promising "I'll be the only Field on the payroll if I go to Washington."

S. W. BROOKHART LOSES IN IOWA

Veteran Senator Beaten In Primary Election By Henry Field

Des Moines, Ia., June 7 (AP)—A new twist to Iowa senatorial campaigns was indicated today with the apparent defeat of Senator Smith W. Brookhart in Monday's Republican primary by Henry Field of Shenandoah, seed dealer and radio station operator.

With 2073 of the state's 2435 precincts reporting, field was about 42,000 ballots ahead of the veteran senate foe of "big business and Wall Street." The vote was: Field 154,9338 and Brookhart 122,763 with the other four candidates trailing far behind the two leaders.

Field, dry and endorsed by organizations supporting prohibition, apparently was to be opposed in the November election by Louis Murphy of Dubuque, Democrat, whose pre-primary campaign centered around the slogan, "I am wet." Murphy's total vote on returns from 1522 precincts was 40,565 against 22,749 for former Senator Dan F. Steck of Ottumwa. Three other candidates received but slight support in the Democratic senatorial primary.

Nomination Certain

A senatorial campaign based on prohibition and without Brookhart's verbal assaults on "big business" would be a distinct novelty for Iowa.

Though Field's lead steadily increased, Sen. Brookhart late today refused to concede defeat. The seed dealer's total was, however, well above the 35 percent of the total Republican senatorial vote cast, indicating his nomination was certain without any action by a state convention.

The close race between Rep. Gilbert N. Haugen, dean of the national house, and C. A. Benson for the Republican nomination in the fourth congressional district was apparently won by the co-author of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill. Benson's managers unofficially conceded him victory on the basis of his 23,328 votes to Benson's 22,758. Benson also opposed the veteran congressman two years ao. Incumbents had widened their leads in five other congressional districts and apparently were assured of renomination.

CAUCUS RULE HELPS DEMOS GET SUPPORT

HUGE CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM SOUGHT BY MEASURE

BY CECIL B. DICKSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, June 7 (AP)—Quickly overriding a Republican attempt to obtain sanction of President Hoover's relief program, the Democratic house today approved the $2,300,000,000 Garner plan for helping the unemployed.

Bound by the caucus rule and aided by insurgent Republicans, the Democrats sent the speaker's bill intact to the senate by a vote of 216 to 182.

Action came after a motion by Representative Hawley (R. Ore.) to send the bill back to committee with instructions to adopt the administration proposals was defeated 218 to 183.

Building Program

Ten Democrats bolted their party on the final vote while 21 Republicans and the lone Farmer-Laborite—Kvale of Minnesota—cast their votes for the Garner program. An omnibus amendment proposed by Majority Leader Rainey to perfect the measure and permit the reconstruction finance corporation to lend funds to corporate bodies for the erection of dwellings was approved.

As the measure went to the senate it provided $100,000,000 to be distributed by President Hoover for direct relief; an increase to $3,000,000,000 in the reconstruction corporation's capital, and a $1,200,000,000 public building and waterway construction program to provide employment.

Drastic legislative procedure to insure the favorable action on the Garner plan was clapped onto the house by the Democrats by a vote of 205 to 1899 after a bitter struggle. Eight Democrats bolted the party's caucus on this vote but twelve Republicans and one Farmer-Laborite swung to the majority support.

Relief proposals of various sorts, in addition to the Garner plan, were presented and discussed during the day.

A group of mayors headed by Frank Murphy of Detroit, representing thirty-one important cities, placed before Vice-president Curtis and Speaker Garner and party leaders in both houses petitions urging a $5,000,000,000 bond issue for federal aid. These were read to both branches.

Secretary Mills advocated the president's proposal to expand reconstruction finance corporation capital $1,500,000,000 before the senate banking committee, and clashed with Senator Wagner (D. N. Y.) and other over the merits of the Democrats' proposed public building program, charging that it would be a drain on the treasury.

Earlier the senate banking committee approved the $300,000,000 section of the Democratic relief bill for loans to states to prevent destitution, and continued consideration on the president's proposal to set up a system of home loan discount banks to ease credit on long term securities.

Petitions Presented

On the house side the rules committee voted to give the home loan discount bill preferred status and Chairman Pou predicted house action before adjournment.

The Fullmer measure to turn over to the Red Cross an additional 40,000,000 bushels of farm board wheat and 500,000 bales of cotton was approved by the house agriculture committee.

INSULL DEALS TO BE PROBED

Complete Audit of All Stock Transactions Is Ordered

Chicago, June 7. (AP)—Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley announced late today he has ordered a complete audit and history—"Showing every transaction, every payment of money, and every transfer of stock"—of Insull Utility Investments, Inc.

The company referred to is a half billion dollar investment trust which Samuel Insull, organized to deal in securities of his operating concerns, and thus insure Insull control of the companies.

"If personal liabilities on the part of directors and officers of the company are disclosed," the federal judge said, "Then civil action should be undertaken to recover from them such funds as could be obtained."

Insull Utility Investments, Inc., together with other Insull investment trusts and holding companies, now is in receivership. It was organized in boom stock market days when Insull feared that eastern capitalists were attempting to buy up stock in his companies and gain control of his electric, gas and transportation systems.

At one time Insull was reported to have offered with trust funds a premium of $50 a share above the market for Commonwealth Edison which reputed was being bought up by Cyrus Eaton of Cleveland.

In connection with those stock purchases, it was recalled that Insull told a meeting of stockholders four months ago that "The judgment exercised was poor in the light of today. But my judgment was no poorer than your's."

"I wouldn't have made those purchases," the 72 year old utilities magnate continued at that time, "if I hadn't thought they were good. I did my very best and I did it honestly. No one in this room has suffered in pocketbook and reputation as I have."

No mention was made by Judge Lindlay of corporation securities, organized for the same purpose as Insull utility investments. He did, however, accept Insull's resignation as co-receiver for Middle West Utilities the three billion dollar holding company formed by him.

That resignation signalled the formal end of Insull as the nation's leading utility magnate. It was presented by an attorney, James Simpson, who left the leadership of Marshall Field and company to take charge of the large Insull operating firms, was likewise absent.

Meanwhile stock tickers told of breaks in the prices of Insull operating company stocks in anticipation of unfavorable auditors' reports on Commonwealth Edison, Public Service of Northern Illinois, and the Peoples Gas, Light and Coke companies.

Two Youths Shot As Borrowed Gun Accidently Fires

Detroit, June 7 (AP)—A nine-year-old schoolboy who "borrowed" a gun which a playmate brought to St. Francis parochial school today accidentally shot and probably fatally wounded a companion and injured himself when the gun was discharged in a third-grade classroom.

Joseph Koneski, seven, was shot in the abdomen when the gun went off, and Arthur Fedziuk, nine, was shot in the hand when he drew the gun from his shirt as he sat with 40 other pupils in the room.

Threats Against Man Investigated

Detroit, June 7 (AP)—An investigation of threats against the life of H. Ray Richardson, of Northville, who recently announced a plan to open a new bank in Northville to replace two banks now closed, was under way tonight, under the direction of Sheriff Henry Behrendt.

Letters sent to Richardson, the sheriff's department said, threatened to blow up his home, kidnap himself, his wife and two children, and adjured him to "remember the Lindbergh kidnaping." Three missives were turned over to the sheriff, who said the handwriting was identical. An offer by the sheriff for a bodyguard for Richardson was turned down.

Prof. Assaulted By Father Of Boy Who Failed To Pass Test

Columbia, Mo., June 7 (AP)—Dr. George E. Ward, of Poplin, former state legislator, and his son, George E. Ward, Jr., a student in the University of Missouri, were arraigned here tonight on charges of assault with intent to kill Dr. H. H. Charlton, university professor of anatomy, who charged he was attacked for his failure to give another son of Dr. Ward a passing grade in his anatomy course.

Dr. Charlton said he was attacked today as he was leaving the medical building on the university campus. He accused George E Ward, Jr., of knocking him down, while the elder Ward stood by, with a screw driver in his hand, and cussed the anatomy professor.

Harold C. Ward, the other son of Dr. Ward, left the university last fall after failing to make passing grades.

Hausner was not sighted after passing over the coast of Newfoundland and it is believed that he is lost.

HERRIOT WINS IN TEST VOTE

Confidence in New Ministry Expressed by Chamber

Paris, June 7 (AP)—Premier Edouard Herriot was given a clear-cut mandate to represent French interests at the Lausanne reparations parley and Geneva disarmament conference by a smashing vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies tonight.

Declaring his new administration was founded on a basis of close international collaboration in the fields of both economics and politics, the premier made a fervent appeal for support. It was granted by a vote of 390 to 152.

He also had pledged his government to immediate economies in the war budget.

The vote in support of his newly formed cabinet came from the left and well over toward the center right, including several members of the former government, despite opposition from his predecessor in the premiership, Andre Tardieu.

M. Tardieu, in an address strongly critical of the Socialists, said that if Premier Herriot took the same position at Geneva that Tardieu had, the former premier would support him. The Socialists, while not in the government, have given it nominal support.

M. Herriot replied that the ministerial declaration which he presented was clear and read again that portion on disarmament, saying that his radical-Socilists were faithful to the security of France.

Asserting he and his colleagues would take a determined stand at the impending Lausanne reparations conference against violation of treaties and contracts, he still left the way open for reparations negotiations.

"The government is ready," he said, "to discuss any project or take any initiative likely to provoke, by reciprocity, greater world stability or peaceful reconciliations."

Increase Army Staff Some 2,000; Forget Millions to Pay Them

Washington, June 7 (AP)—The senate appropriations committee today decided the army needed 2,00 more officers than the 10,000 the house thought it should have, but overlooked for a time the point of providing money for their salaries.

To correct this error, the bill, carrying nearly $400,000,000, was rushed off the floor and back to the committee at the request of Senator Reed (R. Pa.), who is in charge of it. The $27,209,927 the house provided for pay was raised to $31,833,427 and the bill returned to the senate.

As the bill came from the house, it carried $392,586,146, which was reduced by the senate committee to $389,578,513, as it stood after being corrected. This was $21,785,245 under the estimates for the fiscal year 1933, and $56,1994,722 under the 1932 appropriations.

Oklahoma Outlaw Escapes Police By Using Machine Gun

Ada, Okla., June 7 (AP)—Holding at bay with machine gun fire a posse which had surrounded them at a farmhouse near Stonewall, two men identified by officers as Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, much-sought Oklahoma outlaw, and his lieutenant, George Birdwell, escaped tonight in an automobile.

No one was wounded.

The pair fled in a shower of bullets fired by the posse. Officers expressed belief the two men wore bullet proof vests and other armor.

VICE TRIAL IN FLINT BEGUN

Charge Ex-Policewoman Tipped Off 'Leggers Regarding Raids

Bay City, Mich., June 7 (AP)—Testimony that Lillian Ordway, former Flint policewoman, accused with three others in a prohibition law conspiracy case in federal court here, tipped off Flint bootleggers to the raiding activities of federal prohibition agents was given by a former Flint police matron as the trial of the four started today.

Mrs. Emma Carroll, civil service clerk at Washington and former Flint police matron, testified that Mrs. Ordway, after being informed that the "federals were in town" by Charles Meyers, Flint detective and co-defendant in the case, telephoned various places with the information to "close up quick, the old woman is in town." By the "old woman," the witness explained, Mrs. Ordway meant the federal officers. The witness said on cross-examination that it was because of this condition that she resigned from the Flint police department.

Bought "Protection"

The first witness called by the government was Charles Ross, convicted bootlegger, now serving a 13 months sentence in the government penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas. He likewise testified in the first Flint conspiracy trial which resulted in the acquittal of Mayor William H. McKeighan, Caesar J. Scavarda, former chief of police, Ben Baker, detective, and Ay Vergo, reputed racketeer.

Ross testified today that he paid Charles Meyers, one of the four on trial, who was then a member of the Flint vice squad in charge of prohibition enforcement, $400 for protection to operate a blind pig for a six month period. The witness likewise told of buying beer from Herbert Zink, reputed bootlegger, and also a co-defendant in the case together with Mel Coggins, an alleged bootlegger.

Judge Arthur J. Tuttle ordered the jury of 11 men and one woman sitting in the case will be sequesteerd throughout the trial.

Chicago Gangsters Ready To Assume Machine Gun War

Chicago, June 7 (AP)—As a special grand jury was being impanelled today to investigate Chicago crime, authorities said they learned rivals for gang control were ready to resume their machine gun war where it ended on St. Valentine's Day, 1929.

George Moran, leader of the group whose seven members were slain that day by machine guns of Capone allies, is back and dickering with various elements inimicable to the Capen syndicate on the lucrative north side, officials said.

The hoodlums scattered by Al Capone's imprisonment in Atlanta penitentiary have disputed the rule of Joe Fusco, his chief lieutenant, and Ted Newberry. Moran, authorities said, considered the situation favorable for a new bid to power.

Meanwhile, the grand jury specially called to investigate crime, was instructed to direct its attention particularly to any evidence of alliance between police and criminals.

30 INJURED IN TRAIN MISHAP

Express Crashes Into Derailed Freight In New Jersey

Deans, N. J., June 7 (AP)—Between 25 and 30 persons were injured when an Atlantic City to New York express train ploughed into a derailed freight just west of here tonight.

The locomotive and first three cars of the six-car express plunged over an eight-foot embankment. The last three cars, which were parlor cars, left the rails but did not go over the bank.

Hurry calls brought ambulances and physicians from New Brunswick, five miles east of here.

The engineer of the express train was thrown from his cab into a deep brook at the bottom of the embankment and was almost drowned before rescuers reached him. He suffered fractures of both legs. The fireman also was seriously hurt.

Doctors Aboard Train

At St. Peters and Middlesex hospitals in New Brunswick it was reported none of the passengers was seriously injured.

Four physicians and four nurses, returning to New York from a convention in Atlantic City, were aboard the train. They administered emergency treatment to several of their fellow passengers.

Traffic on the four-track trunk line of the Pennsylvania railroad was tied up by the wreck. When it became apparent the tracks would not be cleared before morning, New York-Philadelphia trains were rerouted.

Preliminary investigation indicated the freight had been derailed by the opening of a chute in a coal gondola. Coal flowing onto the tracks caused twelve freight cars to leave the rails.

The locomotive of the express train plunged into the brook after caroming off the coal gondola.

The blue uniformed hosts, four thousand in number and with glittering swords and plumed helmets, marched in today in the annual parade. They performed intricate maneuvers and drills along the line of march to music of a dozen bands and bugle and drum corps.

The mild sunny weather was ideal, and thousands of spectators and state dignitaries were on hand in the afternoon to witness the public drill in Garfield Park. Drill winners were not announced.

Senator Vandenberg (R. Mich.) had it read to the senate. Senator Lewis (D. Ill.) called attention to the resignation of President Charles G. Dawes of the finance corporation in which "he is quoted as saying there is no further need for his services and that prosperity has returned."

"I would that such were true," Lewis said, "but we who are in touch with the masses realize they are on the border of desperation."

GUN SMUGGLER TO STAND TRIAL

Leavenworth Prison Delivery Plotter Waives Extradition

Detroit, June 7 (AP)—Charged with smuggling firearms into the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas., last December, Harold Fontaine was enroute to Kansas tonight for a hearing on the charges.

Fontaine was spirited away by government authorities immediately after he had been brought to the Wayne county jail here today from the Essex county jail in Sandwich, Ont., where he had been held for several months before deciding to abandon his attempts to fight extradition to the United States.

Fearing that an attempt would be made to kill Fontaine, who is said to have made disclosures implicating other gangsters and prisoners in the attempted jail break in which the warden was wounded, Fontaine's transfer to this country was under heavy guard.

Aided Attempted Break

A large detail of Canadian police took Fontaine to the Ambassador bridge across the Detroit river. On the American side they were met by a carload of Detroit police, who rushed him to the Wayne county jail.

Fontaine, a former Leavenworth inmate, smuggled the guns used in the attempted wholesale delivery into the prison shoe shop in a barrel of shoe paste, federal authorities charge.

He was extradited to the United States on the strength of an affidavit made by a prisoner in the Canadian jail stating that Fontaine told him of his part in the plot.

ple by the congressional Republican leaders.

Those attending today's conference included Senators Borah Smoot of Idaho, Robinson of Indiana, Steiwer of Oregon, Thomas of Idaho, Capper of Kansas Goldsborough of Maryland, and Vandenberg of Michigan.

The informal discussion developed that some of those present, including Steiwer, already had declared themselves on prohibition. Steiwer has come out for resubmission, but he is inclined to doubt the wisdom of the national party seeking to bind all members on the issue.

Anyway, it was apparent that some did not feel free to enter movements running contrary to their expressed views.

Garfield continued his conferences during the day with Republican congressional leaders, including Vandenberg. He did not visit President Hoover who has maintained strict silence on the prohibition dispute facing the party.

The continued presence of Postmaster General Brown in the resubmission parleys, however, has led to general conclusions on the president's stand. Brown is a member of his official family and those who participated in the conferences favoring the resubmission plank are all leaders in the administration cause.

CHILEAN JUNTA DENIES DISCORD

Carlos Davila Says He Has No Intention to Resign from Body

Santiago, Chile, June 7 (AP)—Discord was reported today among the members of the junta which seized the government Saturday and dedicated Chile to Socialism, but Carlos Davila, the junta's civilian chief, denied there was any friction.

Senor Davila, former Chilean ambassador to Washington, categorically denied widespread rumors that he had threatened to resign from the governmental body.

He likewise denied there was unrest in the south, or that there was a counter-revolutionary movement, although meagre reports from the affected region said such a movement, which started yesterday, continued to smoulder.

While the leader of the junta reaffirmed his plan to tax the rich for relief of the workers and unemployed, several thousand workers gathered near the presidential palace and pledged their cooperation in the contemplated program.

The leaders of the revolutionary government, however, were holding up their decisions on several pressing problems, including the issue of suppressing religious orders, in the hope of reaching complete internal accord before they took any drastic action.

Senor Davila told the Associated Press that church property, as well as privately owned foreign and domestic property, would be respected.

After appointing a committee of professors and students to take charge of National university, the junta believed its controversies with the students, who had threatened a general strike, were ended.

Student opponents of the new regime in Santiago had locked themselves within university buildings to avoid molestation as they proceeded with plans for the strike. Both young men and young women participated in the student agitation.

The government, moving to reorganize the university to provide stricter control of undergraduates, appointed a committee of three professors and three students, which took charge.

IMPROVED MILK SUPPLY SOUGHT

Tests and Inspections In Delta County Get Results

Barn and bovine inspections recently authorized by the Delta county board of supervisors are already bringing results in improved milk production conditions, according to Dr. L. J. Heiden, assigned as county veterinarian to carry on the work of helping to produce cleaner and safer milk. Dr. Heiden was also authorized to make tuberculosis tests, under the following resolution adopted by the supervisors at their last session:

"Whereas, at the October meeting of the Board of Supervisors, last past, the sum of twenty-five hundred and four and 10-100 dollars was appropriated for veterinary's salary, traveling expenses, supplies, freight and express;

"And whereas, the State of Michigan has determined to make a complete tuberculosis test every three years;

"And whereas, it is deemed advisable to have tests made of the herds of producers who are selling raw milk and cream and to better barn conditions conducive to cleaner and purer milk;

"Now therefore, be it resolved, that Dr. L. J. Heiden be employed for the current year until Jan. 1, 1933, as county veterinarian, and he be authorized to test for tuberculosis, cattle owned by producers who sell raw milk (and or) cream and to otherwise inspect such cattle for disease and to inspect the conditions under which the milk of such cattle is produced and handled and to advise, aid and assist such producers in regard to the methods of producing and marketing of such milk (and or) cream, to remedy conditions that may need to be remedied, as soon as possible; and in case of their failure to do so, to report such failure to the state dairy inspector; to keep records of such tests and inspections as he shall make from time to time, and to report generally to the Board of Supervisors at the next ensuing October session thereof and at the next ensuing session thereafter, such report to contain the number of cattle tested for tuberculosis and the number of cattle examined for other diseases and the number of diseased cattle found, the number of dairies and barns inspected, the number found satisfactory, and the number found unsatisfactory, and such other information as he may deem to be of interest and value to the Board of Supervisors."

MANY PLANES ENTER CIRCUS

Aerial Exhibition to Be Staged Here Saturday and Sunday

Entries of pilots from various parts of the upper peninsula and northern Wisconsin into the air circus, which will be held at the Escanaba airport Saturday and Sunday, June 11 and 12, were reported yesterday by Walter G. Arntzen, Escanaba, and Ed Carlier, Manitowoc, who are promoting the event.

The pilots and their planes are: Frank Schoblaska, of Manitowoc, Waco; Royal Schaffer, Two Rivers, Eagle Rock; Harold Skelly, Hancock, Waco; Julian Schuster, Ontonagon, Waco; Sigmund Wilson, Marquette, Cessna; Ed Watson, Marquette, Arrow; Carl Tauch, Marquette, Great Lakes; Dr. A. L. Haight, Crystal Falls, Stinson, and Joseph Cazzuol, Iron River, Challenger.

Pilot Arntzen said that the Fleet, Cardinal and two Moth planes, which are quartered at the local airport, will participate in the air show, and there is a possibility that five more outside flyers will come here.

An aerial dog fight, a stunt which aroused much interest at the Marquette air circus recently, will be put on here, with Pilots Arntzen, Schoblaska and Skelly taking part. Other attractions will be announced later.

The main purpose of the air circus is to sustain aviation interest in the upper peninsula. Ten percent of the proceeds will go to the unemployed, while the remainder will be cousumed for fuel and servicing of the planes, and other expenses.

MORAL: SHARE, OR YOU LOSE ALL

Like manna from the sky, a slippery lake eel 16 inches long plopped out of the blue Tuesday morning and landed on the street in front of an Escanaba business place. The sky was cloudless, and it wasn't raining "cats and dogs". After considerable conscientious investigation, however, Salt & Pepper is able to explain this phenomenon for both of our readers. Two sea gulls were flying overhead, scrapping over the prize which one of them had caught or salvaged after it was discared by a fisherman. One seagull asked the other, to share up, but the other refused to give up even a tiny bite, and when the naughty greedy thing opened her mouth to screech "No, I won't", down dropped the breakfast, and they both lost it. So little children let that be a lesson to you; whatever it is.

ROCKEFELLER FAVORS DRY LAW REPEAL

THE surprising announcement by John D. Rockefeller Jr., a lifelong teetotaler and supporter of the temperance cause, that he believes the eighteenth amendment a failure and should be repealed, indicates a trend of thought in this nation that has been rapidly growing in the last few years.

Coming from this particular source, the announcement will give increased courage and confidence to opponents of prohibition and will spread more gloom about depressed Westerville, O., bailiwick of the Anti-Saloon League, to which the Rockefellers have been heavy contributors.

The junior Rockefeller finally confesses that he had confused real temperance with prohibition, the latter, an experiment in social reform that looked good in theory but does not work so effectively in actual practice. He expresses the opinion of an increasing number of American citizens, who have come to feel that the benefits growing out of prohibition are minimized by the moral breakdown and disrespect for law that have resulted.

The Press hopes along with Mr. Rockefeller that the major political parties will adopt resubmission planks in their convention platforms so as to put this troublesome question out of politics, and thereby give the parties an opportunity to concentrate on the economic issues, which at this time are highly more important. The Press cannot agree with the extreme wets that the repeal of prohibition would bring back prosperity any more than it could credit the dry law with the high wages and profits that existed before October, 1929. The moral and social angles of the prohibition question are of paramount importance, however.

As a further move to keep the prohibition question out of politics, the Press recommends the plan of Nicholas Murray Butler for submitting it into the hands of non-partisan state conventions, delegates to which would be named solely for the purpose of considering this issue. By this means, it would not be tacked on to any particular party and would give a chance for a fairer expression of the sentiments of the people.

WORK AND MONEY

"SYMPHONY of Six Million," the talking picture from Fannie Hurst's story, which was shown in the theatre here this week, has a valuable lesson for the many graduates of high schools and colleges, who at this time are wondering what vocations they should choose and how they will live in the future.

There has been considerable complaint voiced about the movie industry for its release of trashy sex and gangster plays, but it redeems itself when it presents to an appreciative public such pictures as this.

Dr. Felix Klauber, who was the hero in the story, was happy while working among the poor of the Ghetto, but when he was prevailed upon for the love of his family to cater to a wealthy clientele, he lost for awhile his ideals, although he made an immense amount of money. He realized, too, that in his concentration on the making of money he became flabby and failed to do his job as well, but he regained his abilities as a great surgeon when he returned to his clinic work in the Ghetto.

Too, often, young folks in embarking upon their life's careers make the mistake of considering money as the sole measure of success. The greatest satisfaction that man gets out of life is the doing of the job he likes and doing it well, regardless of its financial reward. Those who assume that attitude naturally become capable in their work, and a reasonable financial compensation comes as a by-product of serving others well.

A BRAVE GIRL

BRAVERY is not to be found only on the battlefield, but in our every-day existence we hear of numerous acts of great courage. There are heroes, and there are heroines. Which are the braver cannot be decided, for every day one or the other rises to new heights of courage, making actual determination impossible. Lindbergh flies the Atlantic alone, and five years later a woman, Mrs. Amelia Earhart, also makes the perilous trip.

The latter were exploits commanding world-wide attention, but there are many brave acts, which probably are just as great, that have been performed with less attendant publicity. Naomi Michau, 17-year-old girl, who could not swim, jumped into the Ford River Sunday with an inflated inner tube of an automobile tire, and grabbing a companion, Elsie Hahn, paddled to shore to save her from drowning. This, too, was bravery, and a fine display of clear thinking in the face of difficult circumstances.

Naomi merits a Carnegie medal, but if she gets it she will derive greater satisfaction and happiness from the memory of the time when she saved the life of a friend. That will mean more to her than all the public recognition she will receive.

AROUND THE U. P.
(Ironwood Globe)

THE state board of aeronautics recently made another move to improve conditions for airplanes in the rugged Upper Peninsula. The board appropriated $600 to aid Alger county in improving its landing field at Munising, commenting in its bulletin that the Munising field will be one of the finest in the state when it is completed. An additional $300 was appropriated for completin the emergency field at Amasa, this being in addition to $1,800 appropriated for developing the field. The Amasa field is located in the center of a dense forest.

The Lions of Upper Michigan will hold a convention at Norway next Saturday and some good speeches have been scheduled, as is usually the case. In that connection, a good suggestion comes from a man who writes under the pen name of Dan Wilson in the Norway Current. "One thing the delegates don't want to forget," he says, "and that is, pass a resolution or something concerning prohibition. Because a convention nowadays isn't a success unless this little item is taken care of. Doesn't make any difference, for or against." Dan is right. That is the popular thing to do and surely the Lions want to be in the swim.

Billy Burke, who represents Ontonagon, Keweenaw and Alger counties in the state legislature, has changed his mind or at least is wavering on the subject of politics. Visiting Ironwood some time ago, he announced he would not be a candidate for re-election. Last week he told in Ontonagon that since his announcement so much pressure has come for him to be a candidate again that he is seriously considering it. Well, Billy isn't different from other politicians. They are the best little mind-changers in the country.

BATTLE OF THE OISE

On June 8, 1918, shortly before midnight, the Germans, concentrating on a drive to the Marne, met a strong Allied force on the banks of the Oise and were repulsed after a terrific battle.

More than 400,000 men were massed on a 20-mile front, from Montdidier to Noyon. North of this sector the Germans held the attention of British troops by a constant pounding of gunfire.

This battle, which was to wage back and forth for days, brought to light the fact that Germany was mobilizing 16-year-old boys, old men and convicts in a last desperate effort to strengthen her weary troops.

The first assault was made on French lines near Hautebraye, between the Aisne and the Oise, but the French successfully withstood the assault and even staged a counter attack.

CHAPTER XII

THE telephone shrilled. Cherry dropped the brown felt she had been about to pull over her head and reached for the receiver.

"Hello," she said eagerly, expecting to hear Dan's voice.

"Is this Mrs. Phillips?"

It was a stranger speaking. A man whose voice she did not recognize. Cherry said yes, this was Mrs. Phillips, and waited.

"This is the clerk downstairs," the man went on crisply. "There's some one to see you—Mrs. O'Fallon the name is."

"Who? Oh—oh, tell her to come right up! Tell her to come right away!"

A few moments later when there was a light rap Cherry ran to the door, pulled it open and threw both arms about the short, stout figure on the threshold.

"Sarah! Oh, I'm so glad to see you. I'm so glad—"

The rest was muffled against Sarah O'Fallon's substantial shoulder. Sarah's generous arms had gathered the girl into them. She was a Sarah transformed by a long dark blue coat and neat black turban, but her eyes were as blue, her cheeks as pink as Cherry had always seen them.

"Cherry darlin'!"

Old Sarah's vision seemed suddenly blurred. They were glad tears that glistened on the round, pink cheeks. She patted the girl's shoulder, mumbling endearments that were half audible.

"But Sarah—!" Cherry exclaimed, laughing. There was a suspicious sparkle on her lashes too. "You're crying! You mustn't do that. How did you know how to find me? Oh, there's so much I want to tell you, Sarah, and so many things I want to ask! Here—come inside. Sit down! Sarah, you haven't told me how you found out where I was. And you are crying. How's Mother—?"

The questions came one after the other without a moment's pause for replies.

At last Sarah, mopping her eyes, managed to get out, "You shouldn't have done it, Cherry. You shouldn't have run away like you did."

Her severity was utterly transparent. Sarah's eyes were on her former charge, anxious and adoring, while she pretended to scold.

"Oh, please, Sarah, don't begin that!"

"Just the same you shouldn't have done it! I read in the papers about you bein' married and all. My little Cherry! I couldn't believe it!"

"I'd do it again," the girl said proudly. "Wait till you know Dan, then you'll understand—"

THE older woman was sitting in the big overstuffed chair. Cherry who had perched on the arm of the chair suddenly slipped to her knees directly in front of Sarah.

"Dan's—wonderful!" the girl said, raising starry eyes. "I'd do it again for him!"

"You mean you're really happy?"

"Happier than I've ever been in my life!"

Old Sarah slipped a hand over the girl's. "May the Lord take care of you and help you to keep that happiness," she murmured. "Maybe if you feel that way it's for the best—"

"Of course it is!" Cherry insisted. "And really, Sarah, there wasn't any other way!"

For Sarah's benefit she reviewed the scene of her last evening at home. With "oh's" and "ah's" and frequent nodding of her head Sarah listened to the story. Cherry described the marriage and the celebration with Dan's friends.

Then it was Sarah's turn to take up the narrative. "Such a night!" she began. "I hope I'll not live through another one! All that we knew was that you'd gone and your mother was cryin' her eyes out in her room and your father downstairs pacin' back and forth like a wild man. Half the night it went on and not a wink of sleep did I get! And feelin' guilty as I did for knowin' where you'd been off to in the afternoon. I was afraid to speak and afraid not to. Oh, it was terrible! Then in the morning we saw the papers and read how you'd been married. I guess your father took on even worse than he did the night before. He didn't leave the house until almost noon. We could hear their voices—his and your mother's—but it was your father that did most of the talkin'. Finally he left and your mother said she had a headache and was not to be disturbed. She stayed in her room all day, but she had me bring the newspapers and it was easy to tell from the way her eyes were swollen and the red lines around 'em that it wasn't headache—"

"I'm sorry," Cherry said slowly. "I didn't know she'd feel so badly."

"What? Not feel badly? With her daughter that seems almost a baby still run off and marryin' someone she doesn't even know? Not feel badly? Oh, Cherry!"

"Would she let me come to see her?" the girl asked hesitantly.

Sarah shook her head. "That's the worst part," she admitted. "It's your father that's so set against it. That's why your mother sent me—"

"Mother sent you!"

"Of course. Late yesterday afternoon she rang and said I was to go out of the house somewhere and telephone the newspaper office and see if I could find out where you were. Well, I did it and some girl with a nice polite voice said you was at the Bismark hotel. So when I told your mother she said I was to get your things packed and send them to you."

"Oh, Sarah—"

"Well, I thought before I did that it would be better to come down and talk to you and see how everything was. Your mother said yes, that's what I should do, but I mustn't let any of the others know about it. And none of 'em does know! So you tell me, Miss Cherry, what to pack. I think your mother liked the idea of my comin' to see you so I could tell her how you was and if you want to send her a note I'll be glad to take it. But I wouldn't write letters because maybe your father wouldn't like that."

CHERRY was on her feet. "Of course I'll write," she said. "Sarah, you're an old darling. You'll come to see me often, won't you?"

"Well, I'll try to. We'll have to be careful, though. It wouldn't do for your father to find out."

Half an hour later Sarah O'Fallon departed. Stowed away in her purse was the letter Cherry had written to her mother. The trunk with Cherry's clothing, Sarah promised, would be delivered in the afternoon.

"Don't fret," she told the girl as she hesitated with one hand on the doorknob. "If you're sure you've got the right boy things'll come out right! Young folks have to go their own way, I guess. You can let me know if you move and I'll come when I can."

Cherry went down the hall with her. She squeezed Sarah's hand tightly as the door of the elevator car slid open.

"Goodby, Darling."

"Goodby."

Back in her room the girl glanced at her wrist watch. Almost noon. One thought and one only was in Cherry's mind. With sudden energy Cherry hurried to the clothes closet and dragged out the big box from Stanley's. A minute more and she was pulling on her hat and coat.

She left the hotel and walked to the department store with the

THE MAN I LIVE WITH

Somehow, a man can get along
With other men, however wrong,
With women, too, however mean;
Somehow, a man I've never seen,
Or women met, I couldn't live
Longside of somehow, and forgive,
And that's the way that I have done—
Excepting one.

Somehow, there's one among the lot
Whose faults I never have forgot
Or quite forgiven, try my best,
I get along with all the rest,
And find it easy to forget
The suns of sinners I have met
Excepting one, try though I try—
And that is I.

Somehow, I pass the other man,
Avoid the woman (for I can),
But there's another fellow there
I can't get free of, anywhere.
There's only one way to get through,
I guess—live better than I do;
For I, it's very plain to see,
Must live with me.

Movies Of Bank Robbery Taken; Yeggs Arraigned

The Hermansville bank robbery episode today reached the moving picture stage, while the three bandits in captivity were awaiting the arrival of Judge Frank A. Bell at Menominee to appear before him for sentence, and the fourth member of the band was still at large somewhere, it was believed and "hoped," in the swamps between Sagola and Amasa.

The moving picture stage began with the arrival of Robert Lewis, of the Fox Films, and Barry McCaulay, of the Milwaukee Journal. They took news film scenes of the First National bank at Hermansville, scene of the holdup a week ago this morning, the Powers telephone operator who gave out the alarm, the bridge at Niagara where two of the bandits were captured, the railroad crossing a mile south of Sagola where the third bandit was caught during a gun duel, officers who took part in the hunt and other snaps of interest in the case.

Still Hunt One

Sheriff Ed Reindl, of Menominee county, and deputies, Dickinson county deputies and state police were still searching today for the fugitive bandit, said to be John Jacobinski, 20, who escaped into the woods during the railway crossing battle. One report today was that several shots had been heard back in the swamps and officers thought Jacobinski might have been attempting to kill some game for food or perhaps may have ended his life.

The captive bandits, Edward Kunasiewicz, 19, and his brother, John, 18, and Frank Jacobinski, 20, brother of the fugitive, were arraigned before Justice Bottkol in Menominee last evening and pleaded guilty. It was expected that Judge Bell would be in Menominee this evening or tomorrow to sentence them.

AMUSEMENTS

Ramon Novarro comes through with another scoring performance in "Huddle," which opened yesterday at the Delft Theatre. His role as an Italian laborer who wins a scholarship to Yale University is one of the most virile of his entire career and involves him in plenty of fast-moving action.

From brawls in the steel mill to driving line plunges on the football field, Novarro never "lets down" for a minute. He has mastered gridiron technique in close detail and is utterly convincing in the various athletic sequences. Varsity game scenes involve a number of famous All-American and other noted players in action, including Ernie Pinckert, Jess Hibbs, Gene Clark, Marger Aspit, Dale Van Sickel and Manfred Vezie. The plays are carefully worked out showing many line shifts used by the teams of large American universities.

The campus scenes are reproductions of buildings at Yale and seem to be complete in every detail. Several thousand feet of film in the production were actually "shot" at the university, giving the picture not only authentic atmosphere but unusually picturesque backgrounds.

New Tax Bill Hits at Vacationists Fun

By F. B. COLTON

Washington, (AP)—Vacationers bound for seashore, mountains or the open road would pay a large share of the million dollars in new taxes voted by the senate, should the bill go into effect this summer.

Nearly half the estimated new revenues, designed to balance the nation's budget, constitute a more or less direct "tax on fun."

Vacation and week-end pleasures, whether derived from auto rides, golf clubs or milk shakes, will pay a "cut" to Uncle Sam under the provisions of the senate bill.

Sporting Goods Taxed

The camper, overhauling his fishing tackle beside a campfire, and the flapper, displaying the latest in bathing suits and waterproof rouge at a beach resort, both would help the government's treasury under the senate measure.

Sporting goods and cosmetics both are scheduled for a 10 per cent tax; matches for one-half to two cents per thousand.

Pleasure-seekers off for a month's tour or a day's picnic would start "paying the piper" as soon as their car rolled away from the curb.

The measure levies a cent a gallon tax on gasoline, a cent a quart on old and 2¼ and four cents a pound on tires and tubes, respectively. The car itself would be taxed 3 per cent, and new spark plugs, lights and other accessories 2 per cent.

Motor Boats Assessed

Boating enthusiasts would have to pull oars or paddles to avoid being taxed for their pleasure. Lolling in a motor boat or yacht would cost the owner from $10 to $200 a year according to the size of the pleasure craft.

Should the vacationer carry along a jug of homebrew for solace when the fish aren't biting, he would find himself taxed for wort, malt or grape concentrate. The rates are five cents a gallon, 35 cents a gallon and 40 per cent, respectively. A mechanical refrigerator to keep the brew cool would pay a five per cent tax.

The youngsters on the trip, meanwhile, buying candy, chewing gum and soft drinks at a roadside stand, would pay a tax ranging from 2 percent on gum to nine cents a gallon on fountain syrups.

'Dates' Would Yield Taxes

Uncle Sam also would collect a "rakeoff" from every movie "date,"—10 per cent on the girl friend's face powder, lipstick and jewelry, and ten per cent on the boy friend's tickets if they cost more than 40 cents.

Even vacation memories, preserved by snapshots, would help balance the budget under the senate bill. It provides for a 10 per cent levy on the vacationist's camera.

Items that might be listed under the "tax on fun" are expected to yield about $480,000,000 of the total revenue of $1,113,000,000 provided by the new taxes.

Income Levies Yield $362,000,000

New income tax levies would yield about $362,000,000. Higher postage, beginning with a three-cent rate for letters, varying amounts on telephone, telegraph, radio and cable messages; two cents on bank checks; ten per cent on safety deposit box leases; and charges on capital stock and bond issues, real estate conveyances, stock and bond transfers, are planned to yield many additional millions.

A three-per cent tax on privately-operated electric utilities is scheduled to bring $55,000,000, and new tariffs on imported coal, oil, parafin, asphalt, bitumen, lumber and copper are expected to provide $6,500,000.

Steward's capture, which was effected after two weeks of investigation by the Marinette sheriff's department, was unsensational. Acting on information furnished by the Marinette authorities, the Chicago police picked up Steward under the name of "George E. Graff." The fugitive admitted his identity but denied that he was "wanted" in Wisconsin.

The Marinette sheriff's office received its first positive "tip" of Steward's whereabouts a week after the prisoner had sawed his way out of jail. The information was to the effect that Steward had gone either to Joliet, Ill., his former home, or to Chicago.

box under her arm. Miss Lacey was in the French room, waiting on another customer. Cherry lingered until she had finished. Then she explained that she had changed her mind about the purchases.

Miss Lacey's trim dark brows lifted slightly. If Cherry had not been so preoccupied she would certainly have become uncomfortable under that gaze.

"You mean they're unsatisfactory?" the saleswoman asked.

"No, I—I've decided I don't want them. It's all right, isn't it? They haven't been touched—"

Miss Lacey opened the box and shook out the dresses. Regretfully she admitted that it would be all right. Was there anything else she could show Mrs. Phillips? Something she'd like in exchange?

Cherry said no, there was nothing else. And now that the things had been returned there wouldn't be any bill would there?

Miss Lacey wrote something on a slip of paper. "Just present this at the credit desk," she told Cherry. "They'll give you a receipt."

WITH the carbonated receipt showing that merchandise worth $93.70 had been returned and credited to her account Cherry left the store. She discovered that the sun was shining and the faint breeze held the fragrance of spring. Surely the sky had never seemed bluer. A group of girls passed her, laughing. Cherry paused before a florist's window and gazed in admiration at huge baskets of blue and white hyacinths. She could almost breathe their sweetness.

Spring! Of course it was spring, the season when all the world took on freshness and new life. This was a sunny day in mid-April and Cherry was a bride with the finest, dearest young husband in the world. She had just corrected a mistake that for a short time had threatened their happiness. Everything was all right now. She would not even have to tell Dan about the charge account since the bill had been removed.

At a drug store counter she lunched on a sandwich and malted milk and then hurried back to the hotel. It had been agreed between them that Dan was not to telephone her at noon because Cherry expected to spend the day hunting for an apartment.

She did not go out, however, because she was anxious to be on hand when the trunk was delivered. Cherry would take no chance with that trunk. It came about 4 o'clock. By the time Dan arrived she had unpacked everything and was waiting, fresh and radiant in a deep green frock with touches of daffodil yellow that he said made her exactly like the flower.

"Only lovelier," he told her. "Lovelier because—well, you're you!"

She laughed at him from beneath demure lashes. She said that he was ridiculous and how she loved him for it!

They had dinner again at Schroeder's, exchanging news of the day over the appetizing hot food. Their plates were taken away to be replaced by dessert. Abruptly Dan looked up.

It was one of those moments that seem utterly casual when, looking backward, events reshaping entire lives may be seen to have their beginning.

Dan said, "Guess I forgot to tell you. Max Pearson's coming back tomorrow."

Alumni, Parents Visit Ann Arbor At Commencement

Alumni returning for class reunions and hundreds of parents coming to Ann Arbor to watch the graduation ceremonies which mark the completion of their sons' or daughters' college careers, will crowd the University of Michigan campus from June 16 to 20. The golden anniversary of the class of 1887 and the silver celebration of the "naughty sevens," otherwise the grads of 1907, will be the high spots among alumni gatherings, although 35 other classes will hold meetings, formal or informal.

Medical alumni of the University will number a high percentage of the returning classes it is expected, since special clinics will be held for them at the University hospital. The Emeritus Club, formed of those students who entered the University 60 or more years ago, will repeat the gathering held for the first time last year and a considerable number are expected back to discuss times when there were less than 2,000 instead of almost 10,000 students on the campus. Music will also hold a large place, with the Alumni Sing, which will take place on the library steps this year, and the activities of the Glee, Mandolin and Banjo Club alumni, who at an enthusiastic impromptu meeting last year laid plans for a permanent organization. Laws and engineers, traditional campus rivals, will continue their feud through their alumni, who will wage golf war on the new University course.

On Sunday, June 19, students and guests will gather in Hill auditorium for the annual Baccalaureate address by President Ruthven, and on Monday, at Ferry Field, approximately 2,200 seniors will receive their degrees, more than the entire number of the student body when the class of '82 graduated 50 years ago. Alumni activities will not end here, however, for on Tuesday the "Alumni University," sponsored by the Bureau of Alumni Relations, will open for those who wish to go to school again for a week's series of special courses.

Virginia Goodman, valedictorian of the Class of '32, was named as the "Best All Round Girl," and Raymond Weingartner was given the University of Michigan Delta County Club scholarship and athletic award, at the Class Night program in the high school gymnasium last night. The announcement of the selections was made by Prin. C. C. Strickland of the schools.

National Forensic League key, and membearship certificates and Forensic letters were also awarded at the program. These were presented to Donald Germaine. Regina Formoe and Irene Kee. Donald Germaine was given the awards for participation in debate. Regina Formoe for declamation and Irene Kee for declamation and debate.

Beyond the awards, features of the program were the delivery of the salutatory and valedictory addresses by Ruth Estenson and Virginia Goodman respectively. Both talks were well presented and contained a great deal of food for thought.

Education Encourages Thinking

In her salutatory address, Miss Estenson, opened with a brief welcome, breaking quickly into a discourse on education and closed with the quotation: "Trust in thine own untried capacity—some feet will tread all heights now unattained. Why not thine own?"

"The purpose of education," she said, "is to make men and women. Education encourages thinking and thinking is the creator of personality. A worthwhile personality is composed of breadth of mind, steadiness of purpose, kindliness, common sense, and a capacity for the task in hand."

Speaking of the problems of today she said, "The graduate of today must do creative thinking, for this is a period of readjustment and it is difficult for him to obtain a position. He cannot follow the footsteps of others so he must use his initiative and endeavor to create new positions."

"The successful man takes planty of time for thought," she continued. "He carefully looks the ground over, searches for weak and strong points, and then adjusts himself to the needed conditions."

"Too much materialism and too little appreciation of the idealist were criticised, "but certainly," she said, "we appreciate our modern inventions, radio, airplane, automobile, and these conveniences existed first in the mind of the inventor."

The Valedictory Address

Miss Goodman, in the valedictory talk, chose the story upon which the talk "Acres of Diamonds," delivered by Russell Conwell, was based, to illustrate the point that "True success doe, not lie a long way off."

In her opening remarks, she stated that the class had determined that their program would carry a spak of cheerfulness since "the class does not wish in any way to be associated with the so-called depression of '32."

"It is true," she went on, "that the outlook for graduates this year is not so rosy as it has been in the past, when a high school diploma was the key to a job or a college course."

She pointed out that there are few jobs to be had and that many who in normal times could go on to college will, perhaps, have to postpone further study until good times come again.

The spirit with which she had tackled her studies and won the coveted honor of valedictorian of her class was illustrated, when she said, following the recital of the difficulties which face the graduates, "As individuals we must strive to cultivate that spirit of optimism which the world so greatly needs. The true optimist is not one who assumes a false cheerfulness in time of misfortune, but one who courageously faces the facts and then determine sto make the best of it. We know that good times will come again and in the meantime we can't sit and idly wait for readjustment."

"There are possibilities of success within everyone if only he will grasp the opportunitfes at hand," she continued and then told the story of "Acres of Diamonds," in which an ancient Persian sold his farm and went far afield in search of diamonds. He died in wretched poverty, while the purchaser of the farm found thereon the d'amonds which the misguided Persian had spent his fortune seeking.

In closing, she quoted Dr. Conwell, who said: "Every man in this country of ours has the opportunity to make more of himself, than he does in his own environment, with his own skill, with his own energy," and then aded "True success does not lie a great way off but consists in doing well the task we have at hand, in other words, whatever your niche in life, 'Give to the world the best that you have, and the best will come back to you.'"

Ann Arbor No. 5 Not "Manistique" Turned Over in Harbor Here

An article carried in the Sunday edition of this paper stated that the propeller blade found in the local harbor Friday belonged to the old "Manistique" carferry. Old time residents now inform us that the boat which turned over was the Ann Arbor No. 5 and that the propeller blade probably was from the boat of that name.

The misfortune to the Ann Arbor No. 5 occurred during the latter part of May, 1909, over 22 years ago when in some manner in the loading of freight cars the ballast was distributed unevenly.

H. S. TROPHIES GIVEN TUESDAY

Katharine Hupfer, Boyd Bolitho, Harry Dewey Honored Yesterday

Trophies for all-round excellence were awarded to Katherine Hupfer and Boyd Bolitho and the University of Michigan club golf cup trophy to Harry Dewey, low medalist on the Manistique high school golf team in the Upper Peninsula High School Regional tourney, at Class Day exercises held at the school auditorium yesterday afternoon.

The trophy awarded to Miss Hupfer is a beautiful vase-like silver cup given annually by the jeweler furnishing the class rings this year by Peter Stamness. The cup will remain in Miss Hupfer's possession. By reason of Mr. Bolitho's scholastic record, his excellence in athletics, and prominence in other extra curricular activities, his name will be engraved on the University of Michigan wall plague which is kept on display in the high school library. The golf cup won by Harry Dewey will also remain in the possession of the school.

Competition for the two trophies awarded for all-round excellence was exceptionally keen and it was only after long consideration that the aforementioned students were selected.

School officials also announced yesterday that Charles Burley was awarded the annual scholarship to Michigan Tech at Houghton.

Other entertainment on the Class Day program consisted of the valediction by Katharine Jane Husband, the salutatory address by Edith Bowman, and the presentation of the class will, history, prophecy, poem, and green and white address. Music was provided by the high school band.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, June 7 (AP)—Interest in stocks lagged today and the markets sold off, closing on a base that represented cancellation of not quite last week's advance.

It was a leisurly decline and Wall Street labelled it technical, finding more significant the strong undertone of bonds and the dollar's ability to improve in terms of foreign monies.

Stocks firmed a little at the opening in response to presidential signature of the long-debated revenue bill, but soon turned downward and drifted lower to the close.

American Tobacco "B" and Liggett & Myers "B" were down approximately 3 points. Drug, American Telephone, Macy, General Foods, Delaware & Hudson, Norfolk & Western, First National Stores and a few preferreds lost about 2 or more, while in U. S. Steel, National Biscuit, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, American Can, Allied Chemical, New York Central and Southern Pacific losses ranged from 1 to 1½. Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit slumped 3 but the preferred steadied.

Bank Loans Up

Auburn was rather active, losing 2 points at the worst. Announcement of a regular quarterly dividend came just at the close.

The weekly condition statement of reporting federal reserve member banks revealed some interesting changes. Total loans and investments were up $22,000,000. While security loans dropped only $3,000,000, "all others," embracing commercial loans expanded $46,000,000.

Freight loadings made the modest advance of 5,512 cars in the week ended May 28.

From banking circles came reports that the new "bond corporation" had been well received throughout the country and the more cheerful attitude in evidence since congress finished its tax bill seemed to be still prevalent.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, June 7—Faced by prospects of bumper crops of spring wheat in Canada and the United States, wheat values today again outdid season low price records.
Retrogade action of securities counted also as a bearish influence on grain, while other weakening factor was evidence that although Canadian wheat export business had reached a huge total, 7,000,000 to 10,000,000 bushels in the last few days, demand abroad for United States wheat was reduced nearly to zero.
Wheat closed nervous, 5-8 to 1 1-8 lower yesterday's finish, corn ¾ to 5-8 up, oats 1-8 to ½ down, and provisions varying from 7 cents decline to a rise of 10 cents.
Corn developed a stronger tone relative to wheat. Some improvement of shipping call here for corn was noted, together with a falling off in primary receipts. Oats followed wheat rather than corn.
Provisions were steadied by upturns in the value of hogs.
Closing indemnities: Wheat—July, 50¼ to 5-8, 52 3-8 to ½; September, 52 3-4 to 7-8, 54 5-8 to 3-4; December, 55 5-8 to 3-4, 57 3-8 to ½. Corn—July, 28 5-8, 29¼ to 3-8; September, 30 7-8, 31½ to 5-8; December, 32 1-8 to ¼, 32 3-4 to 7-8.

New York, June 7 (AP)—The continued strength of railway obligations today added another fractional gain to the bond market average, although there were conflicting trends apparent in the various classes of senior securities.

Trading was considerably quieter than yesterday, total sales falling off to $8,809,000. The average for 60 corporate loans showed a gain of three-tenths of a point. The utilities finished about even and the industrials were fractionally under yesterday's close.

Carrier bonds received the greatest attention in today's transactions. Gains in this group ranged from fractions to 8 points, the latter mark being recorded by Wabash second 5s. Erratic tendencies were displayed by numerous issues.

Firmness was shown by loans of American Telephone, Armour & Co., Columbia Gas, Consilidated Gas, Detroit Edison, Humble Oil, Kansas Gas, North American, Otis Steel, Paramount Publix and Western Union.

United States government issues were steady despite some nervousness caused by the fear that the Garner relief bill might result in the issuance of more long term federal bonds.

Curb Lags After Last Week's Rally

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, June 7 (AP)—The curb market was again inclined to rest from the efforts of last week's rally today, and moderate declines were the rule in the more active issues.

The volume of trading slackened further, however, as stock was not pressed for sale in any important volume. The turnover of 100,000 shares was 30,000 under yesterday's.

Utility shares generally were heavy. Commonwealth Edison dropped 4¾ points. American Gas and Electric lost 2 points, then recovered partially. Electric Bond and Share lost a fraction.

In the oils, Standard of Indiana ran into further selling, reacting about a point. Gulf and Kentucky were off ½. Some of the coppers also sagged. Newmont, a firm spot recently, lost ¾ of a point, and Hudson Bay appeared at 1½, off ¼. United Verde was steady.

Industrials were mixed.

Detroit Grocers To Extend Credit To Welfare Dep't

Detroit, June 6, (AP)—Detroit Grocers today promised to carry the present volume of welfare department orders on credit through the present fiscal year, ending July 1, and were informed by the common council that the grocers could use the orders as payment of taxes.

The council, on approval of Controller G. Hall Roosevelt, removed the restriction which formerly barred the wholesale grocers from paying national food manufacturers with the orders.

In addition the grocers may use the orders to pay back taxes, a step which will aid the city in bringing in back taxes. The grocers have not decided whether they will take city emergency bonds in

Errors Bring 9-2 Defeats to Cubs and Tigers

BROOKLYN COPS SERIES OPENER

Hornsbymen Lose First Place Hold as Result of Game

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 7 (AP)—A seventh inning comedy of errors, both of omission and commission, gave the Brooklyn Dodgers six runs off young Lon Warneke today and eventually, a 9 to 2 victory over Chicago in the first game of their series.

By the defeat the Cubs lost first place in the National league standing to the Boston Braves, who were idle by rain.

Up to the fateful seventh, Warneke had held the Dodgers helpless, allowing only four hits and striking out seven and held an advantage over Dazzy Vance, who had been nicked for runs in the fourth and fifth frames, one on Gabby Hartnett's long homer.

Bad Day for Hack

Tony Cuccinello opened the Brooklyn seventh with a double to left and reached third when Grimm muffed English's peg on Slade's bounder. Picinich bounced another down to English, and in the attempt to trap Cuccinello all hands got mixed up and Tony slid across the plate safely. Followed a walk to Frederick and then Sukeforth, hitting for Vance, delivered a single that drove in what proved the winning runs. Two more runs scored a minute later when Finn bunted and Grimm threw to the plate. Hartnett went sprawling as the runner hit him and was charged with an error. Lefty O'Doul's single brought in the final run of the inning.

The Dodgers counted 3 more at Jakie May's expense in the 8th when old Jack Quinn punched a double to the center wall with the bases loaded, the veteran's first hit of the season.

Hack Wilson had a bad day gainst his old mates, striking out the first three times he faced Warneke and flying feebly to center in the seventh inning.

Rogers Hornsby, still favoring his ailing feet, was back on the coaching line for the Cubs. In his absence from the line-up, Charlie Grimm had to do most of the hitting for the invaders, getting three of their seven hits.

Pittsburgh Licks Philadelphia, 7-4

Philadelphia, June 7 (AP)—Pounding Roy Hansen for 17 hits, Pittsburgh opened its eastern invasion with a 7 to 4 triumph over the Phillies today.

Floyd Vaughan, young shortstop of the Pirates, led the attack with five hits in five times at bat, including a double. It was a see-saw battle. The Pirates took a 3 to 1 lead in the first three innings, only to have the Phils ahead, 4 to 3, in the sixth. A two-run rally in the seventh sent Pittsburgh ahead for good.

New York Giants Meet Their New Boss—Bill Terry

Waite Hoyt Released By Brooklyn Dodgers

New York, June 7 (AP)—The victim, he believes, of his own dietary discipline, Waite Hoyt's attempted pitching come-back with the Brooklyn Dodgers ended today with his unconditional release.

It was the second time within a year the veteran right-hander was made a free agent and may mean the end of his big league career after 14 years in the majors. He was let out this February by the Athletics, for whom he pitched the latter part of the 1931 season and one world series game.

Reduced 30 Pounds

Hoyt signed a Brooklyn contract with a promise to get himself into first-class condition again and settle down to consistent work. He assured Manager Max Carey he would turn in 20 victories for the Dodgers and put himself on a diet which soon became the rage in the Dodger camp at Clearwater, Fla.

The former star of seven pennant clubs reduced his weight 30 pounds only to find that the loss in avoidrupois was accomplished by a decrease in stamina and effectiveness. He was knocked out of the box in Brooklyn's opening game. Since then he has started only three times. He quit the diet but still failed to improve. His only victory was against the Giants in a game he entered as a relief man. He was charged with three defeats.

Hoyt was an ace with the Yankees in their two championship streaks, 1921-23 and 1926-28. In these six winning seasons his record showed 116 victories and 60 defeats. His complete record for 14 and a fraction seasons shows 190 victories and 134 defeats.

While still a Brooklyn schoolboy star, Hoyt's father in 1916 signed for him to play with the Giants. Subsequently he became the property of the Boston Red Sox, after refusing to report either to the Rochester Internationals or New Orleans club of the Southern association.

The Red Sox traded him to New York in 1920 in a big player swap. He had some erratic seasons along with his great ones, occasionally battled with Miller Huggins over late hours, but always was known as a "money" hurler, winning six world series games for the Yankees.

Hoyt was traded to Detroit by the Yankees in 1931. The Athletics got him for the waiver price last July. He immediately showed a return to form, helping the A's win their third straight pennant but he couldn't tame Pepper Martin in the world series and lost the crucial fifth game at Shibe park.

YOUNG BRITISH GOLFERS STAR

Lead Qualifiers in Open Championship With Hot Pace

BY FRANK H. KING
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Sandwich, England, June 7 (AP)—The younger school of British golf, led by Alfred Bradbeer, Eric McRuvie and Don Curtis, sent hopes soaring for a native victory in the British open golf championship today by leading the qualifiers at a record-breaking pace.

In the pack of 236 contestants were three leading American professionals—Tommy Armour, defending champion, MacDonald Smith and Gene Sarazen—and all the important older British professionals who have been unable to stem the post-war tide of American victories.

Bradbeer won the qualifying medal with par-cracking rounds of 70-71—141. The 23-year-old McRuvie and the equally youthful Curtis broke the record at Prince's by two strokes as they blazed away at one of the toughest golfing tests in Britain for 69s. Their cards were five under par and broke the o'd record, set by Jack Hutchison, by two strokes.

Six Americans Qualify

McRuvie took second place with 75-69—144 and Curtis had 76-69—145 for third.

Mac Smith and Armour, the latter punishing Prince's for a 71 to tie the old record, were deadlocked with the British veterans, Reg Whitcombe and Abe Mitchell, for fourth place in the field of 110 golfers who qualified for the championship proper, 72 holes of medal play, starting tomorrow.

Smith turned in two consistent rounds, 73-73—146, while Armour registered 75-71—146. Mitchel also had a pair of 73's and Whitcombe put together rounds of 76 and 70. Sarazen, with a safe working margin, qualified with 73-76—149.

Six Americans in all qualified and the same number failed. Walter Pursey, professional from Seattle, redeemed a mediocre 81 of yesterday with a fine 71 at Royal St. George's, where half of the qualifying rounds were played, for a 36-hole total of 152. The other two Americans qualifying are amateurs living in London, Douglas Grant scoring 152 and Robert Sweeney, who plays on the Oxford golf team, 151.

Those failing to qualify were Gordon Smith, Palm Beach, Fla., professional; Joshua Crane, Brookline, Mass.; Ross Thompson, Uniontown, Pa., and Paul Azbill, Frank Sweeney, and Stuart Scheftel, all living in England. Thompson missed by one stroke, the limit being 157, at which 12 were tied.

Thirty-three public school boys of England have just returned home after a three and one-half months' trip to South Africa, during which they traveled 12,000 miles by sea, 6,000 miles by train and 2,000 miles by automobile.

Athletics Bow to Cleveland By 4-3

Cleveland, June 7 (AP)—Wes Ferrell chalked up his tenth pitching victory of the season today when the Indians overcame the old-time jinx of the Philadelphia Athletics, winning 4 to 3 after the score was tied three times.

Al Simmons was the big noise for the A's, cracking out his eleventh and twelfth home runs of the year. No one was on base either time. Ferrell put the Indians in front in the seventh when he doubled to left and scored on Porter's two base hit off the screen in right. It was Ferrell's first win over the A's since 1930.

YANKEES WIN AT NAVIN PARK

Three Errors by Charles Gehringer Play Big Part in Setback

Detroit, June 7 (AP)—The Tigers made more and better errors than the New York Yankees today and handed the league leaders a 9 to 2 victory in the first game of the eastern invasion of Navin field.

The Tigers, however, retained their third place standing, thanks to Cleveland's defeat of the Athletics.

Detroit players were guilty of six misplays and the Yanks made three and all but one figured in the scoring in one way or another. Charley Gehringer tossed the game away in the second inning when he let Earl Comb's grounder go through his legs while the bases were full and White made it worse when he retrieved the ball and heaved it clear into the Tiger dugout. Three runs came in on these two errors and were followed up with a single for a fourth.

Tom Bridges, who started for Detroit, contributed to his own defeat by wildness. He gave four walks, hit one batsman and allowed five hits in 2 2-3 innings and four of the Tiger errors were made behind him. All of this combined to let the Yanks sew up the game in the first three frames. Charley Ruffing went the route for New York.

Comedy of Errors

A pass started the trouble again in the third and when Billy tried for a double play on the second force-out, the Yanks were off again. Rogell's attempt resulted in a wild throw that let Bill Dickey reach second. Lazzeri singled him home and went on to third when the ball got away from Johnson. Two singles, a hit batsman and a walk brought in two more tallies before Whitlow Wyatt was sent in to replace Bridges.

In the sixth, Combs' double, a sacrifice and a fumble by Gehringer gave New York another run and Gehringer's third error, a low throw, put Ruffing on base for the final run.

Both Detroit runs were due to Yankee Errors. Combs made a two base muff of Gehringer's fly after Stone had doubled in the first and Ruth's fumble contributed to another tally in the fourth.

Escanaba May Play Iron Mountain Here

Negotiations are now being made with the Iron Mountain city team or a game with the Escanaba ball club at the fairgrounds diamond here next Sunday afternoon. It is expected that negotiations will be completed today.

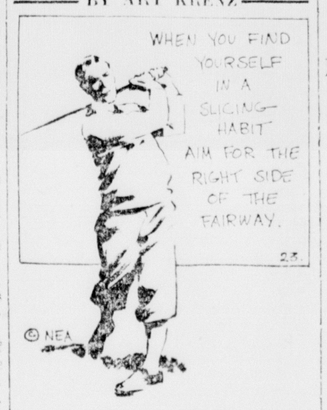
If the Mountaineers are booked for the game here Sunday, Escanaba fans will have a special treat in store for them, baseball followers say. Iron Mountain, always a good baseball town, is represented by a fast aggregation this summer.

The Escanaba team looked good against the West Enders last Sunday, pulling out on the long end of a 2 to 1 count. The hurling performance of Van Effen was especially pleasing to Manager Bourke. With Jonas and Van Effen ready or duty, Bourke believes his pitching problem is solved.

George H. Hedges, entered as No. 13 in a motorcycle race at Camberly, England, collapsed after climbing a hill known as "Devil's Drop," and died soon afterward.

Golfing

BY ART KRENZ



Many times haven't you tried to avoid a trap, bunker or heavy rough only to se your ball head directly for it? Any attempt to steer the ball usually results in disaster.

A simple little plan that has worked for many is to aim directly for the hazard. Try to steer right at it, and because you cannot steer the ball, you will avoid it.

Often a slice can be cured if the player attempts to shoot to the right of the fairway. By doing this he will be throwing the hands and arms in that direction. The result will be that he hits from the inside out.

Guide Tells How To Fish Legally

A fishermen's guide, not to tell him where to fish, but to tell him how he may fish legally, has been prepared by the conservation department. The guide is a brief outline detailing who must have and who does not need a license to fish. The guide follows:

Residents:

Persons over 18 years of age must have a license to fish for brook, brown or rainbow trout.

Residents fishing in waters on enclosed land on which they reside do not need a license to take trout during the open season.

Persons previously convicted of violating a trout fishing law must file application for a license with the director of conservation, who may use his discretion in issuing a new license.

Non-Residents:

Non-residents over 18 years of age must have a license to fish for any species at any time in Michigan waters (including the waters of the Great Lakes).

Non-residents are all persons who have not resided in Michigan for six consecutive months prior to fishing or making an application for a license.

The Makers of Presidents

repute has come down to us unsavory. He was the boss of New York state in the late seventeen-nineties and that was why Jefferson chose him as his running mate for vice president in the 1800 campaign. Then Burr tried to steal the presidency from Jefferson by chicanery and was balked only by Hamilton, whom he later killed in a duel.

Jefferson's career as a power in party politics has never been equaled. He founded what is now the Democratic party and obliterated what was then the Federalist party of Hamilton. He began organizing a political group as far back as 1791, lining up leaders by correspondence—among them the leaders of the Tammany Society in New York.

Elected to the vice presidency in 1796, he was chosen president in 1800 and absolutely dominated national politics for a quarter of a century.

He engineered the election of James Madison as his successor by a series of deals in the less important states which thwarted the Federalists and later dictated the selection of James Monroe for another eight years. Just before his death in 1826 he is said to have been instrumental in the 1824 election of John Quincy Adams.

He was a realist and recognized the political value of patronage. He also foresaw first that democratic principles of government would prove more popular than autocratic heritages from Europe.

George Washington's power over the new nation went unquestioned as long as he was president, but Hamilton was the dominating influence behind Washington.

Hamilton was content with his power as a cabinet officer and undisputed leader of the Federalist party. He pulled many wires in his time. He was a very practical political boss and his theory, as opposed to Jefferson's, was that the government should always be operated for the people by the aristocracy.

In the very first election, when each presidential elector cast two votes so that the second highest man might be chosen vice president, Hamilton was found instructing certain electors to be sure and vote against John Adams, who was to be vice president, lest his vote equal Washington's.

In 1796, when it was still possible by manipulation of electors to swing an alleged vice presidential candidate into the presidency, he was trying to defeat Adams for the highest office by persuading electors to split their tickets for Pinckney. Later, after Adams had been president awhile, he found that Hamilton had been secretly in control of his cabinet all the time.

But although he was the great rival and bitter enemy of Jefferson, this handsome, brilliant and youthful boss saved the presidency for Jefferson in 1800. He could not stomach Burr or the plot joined in by some Federalists who sought to abandon their own hopelessly defeated candidate and toss electoral votes to Burr, who had the same number of votes as Jefferson.

Burr was both an adroit and unscrupulous politician — there were many such even in those days. He had displaced George Clinton as party boss in New York and is credited with invention of one of the first tricks used to evade the election laws.

The ballot was originally restricted to men of property and that was often circumvented when young propertyless men were organized into a group which would be recognized as a property owner. Votes were so few that this method was used to win ward after ward in New York City.

It is also recorded that Burr established the Bank of Manhattan simply by a joker in a water supply bill.

After the Jeffersonians tossed him overboard in 1804, refusing to let him be vice president again, Burr ran for governor of New York and his ambition was again thwarted by Hamilton. His famous duel with Hamilton followed and his power diminished rapidly.

Although the presidency was at first occupied almost exclusively by Virginians, New York was a center of great political power from the beginning and it will be observed in subsequent articles that after the "Virginia dynasty" the bosses of New York and Pennsylvania usually have been vitally important factors in national conventions and campaigns down to the present time.

Clinton wanted to be president after Jefferson and although of Jefferson's party he made a coalition with the New York Federalists and leaders of his own party in other states to beat Madison in 1812. He lost, though he carried New York and remained boss there for many years.

Martin Van Buren was Clinton's campaign manager, marking entrance on the national scene of one of the ciglest, most resourceful major political bosses this country has ever produced.

Green Bay Police Official Injured

Green Bay—Four Green Bay people are in St. Agnes' hospital, Fond du Lac, and three other persons are in Green Bay hospitals as the result of week-end accidents. Because of the pleasant weather, traffic was unusually heavy. Most of the injuries resulted from highway mishaps.

Mrs. Martin Burke, cut and bruised.

Miss Marie Burke, fractured collarbone, cut and bruised.

Burke's accident occurred about 9:30 Sunday morning when the light sedan he was driving left Highway 55 about two miles north of Peebles, ran down into a deep ditch and overturned several times. When it came to rest Capt. Burke was partially pinned under the car. Many Attracted To City Beach As Warm Wave Comes Without advance notice and with no formal ceremony, the swimming season at the Gladstone City Park beach opened the latter part of last week and the warm weather of the past few days has did its part to popularize the sport and the place. The sand beach, gently sloping into the waters of the bay, is ideal for children and for adults. Water deep enough for swimming is available, and yet there is a vast expanse where children may frolic without danger. There are no holes into which they can step, no sudden drop from shallow to deep water and no current or undertow.

It is the history of the beach that no drownings have occurred there, although many lives have been claimed in other parts of the bay.

Graduation Program Tonight; 56 Will Receive Diplomas

Commencement exercises for the Gladstone high school will be held tonight, at 8:15, at the Junior high auditorium, and finale will be written to the high school career of the 56 students to whom diplomas are to be presented. Dr. Preston Bradley, pastor of the People's church of Chicago, and a speaker of national repute, will deliver the graduation address.

The program will open with the academic procession, the 56 capped and gowned members of the class marching down the aisle to the strains of Eilenburg's "Coronation March" played by the high school orchestra. When the members of the class have been seated, Rev. C. E. Olsson, pastor of the First Lutheran church will deliver the invocation.

Dr. Bradley's address will follow two numbers by the Girls' Glee Club, the first "Absent" and the second "Love's a Merchant." The glee club and the orchestra were directed by Robert N. Haskins, music director of the schools.

John Speare, Ironwood, who has accepted a place on the faculty of the schools next year, will appear on the program in a vocal solo number. Mr. Speare is a talented vocalist.

The candidates for graduation will be presented by Principal C. C. Strickland and the diplomas will be given out by Mrs. John Murdock, president of the Board of Education.

At the close of the program Rev. C. V. S. Engstrom will pronounce the benediction.

Board of Review In Busy Session

The Gladstone City Commission, sitting as a Board of Review, will close its review of the tax rolls of the city today, after one of the busiest sessions in many years. Contrasted with previous years a great number have appeared before the board to request reductions in their assessments and in a few instances the board has acceded to their request. In most instances, however, the board has not made a change in the valuations as entered by the assessor.

The total valuation of property in the city, as appraised by the assessor, varies but little from the assessment of a year ago. Generally the property has been assessed at the same figure as a year ago, the variance coming from new homes added to the assessment roll and reductions in personal property valuations due to decreased stocks and lower values.

Win First Game To Stop Leaders

The Men's Wear, cream of the kittenballers, were toppled from their perch atop the league standings Monday by the Five and Dimes in one of the best exhibitions of ball played this year. Playing inspired ball, the Five and Ten team tightened in the pinches and gave real support to the excellent pitching of Pelkey. Only 7 hits were secured off his delivery and one run was scored. Three errors were chalked against his team mates.

E. Olson, Men's Wear hurler, was also in the pink and he let the winners down with 6 hits.
